

Licencing Information

Process Safety & Risk Management DVD Workshops

Organisations can be licenced to deliver our training content across the company intranet. This will give employees access to train from multiple locations/sites.

Cost: We offer a licencing agreement authorising the use of the program on your company's intranet. The licence fee is based on the number of employees who can access the content. The cost will also be determined by the terms of the licence period e.g. one, two or three years. It affords training your employees at minimal cost per person.

Benefits:

- Saves additional time and money involved in setting up group training sessions for large numbers of people, you can train employees at minimal cost per person.
- Removes the need for multiple copies of DVDs for multiple sites.
- Employees can download associated handouts themselves saving additional costs of print and paper.

OPTION 1 – INTRANET LICENCE

All of the Process Safety & Risk Management Workshops are available for licencing. Many organisations worldwide have utilised licencing as an effective way to cascade Professor Hopkins' messages throughout the organisation. It is more cost beneficial as the workshops are then available electronically across the organisation worldwide. This is delivered via computers in the same way shared network files are accessed.

3 Steps to setting up intranet learning from your company intranet:

1. A licence agreement is completed and you provide us your corporate logo which will be used to customise the program. Adding your logo to the program personalises it for your employees, and also deters any use by other companies not licenced to use the program. We will then supply discs containing enriched files of the program and training support material.
2. Your IT department loads the files onto your intranet server.
3. Company personnel can log in and view the video content simply by connecting to the company's intranet.

OPTION 2 – CORPORATE LICENCE

A Corporate Licence will provide you with unlimited access to the training programs for all your employees, via DVD, intranet and/or internet. The content becomes yours (naturally the copyright remains with the producers) to use, in perpetuity. It is also available for your corporate branding.

A Licence Quote is provided based on the number of users and once a licence agreement is completed we will supply the following training materials:

- Electronic video files customised with your corporate logo/safety message/branding.
- All relevant training support material.
- Copyright permission to replicate all the training material (video, PPT, assessment, etc.) on CD or host on your intranet for the all employees within your company. This also includes permission to produce additional language versions of the film and support material through reputable production facilities and with the proviso that a master disc for each language or support material is sent to us for final approval.
- Lifetime licencing- no annual renewals.

With a corporate licence, you have permanent access to using the training programs within your organisation at a set price that you can disseminate across the organisation.

Companies using licenced programs include: Chevron, Coca Cola Amatil, Coffey, Newcrest Mining, Origin Energy, Rio Tinto and Woodside Energy.
